6	Mrs. Kusuma	Member

Selection Process

The Committee constituted with The Principal, Convenor and the members is entrusted to select the deserving students to avail this facility.

Applications were invited from the students who wish to avail the facility. Committee formed for this purpose went through the applications and intimated the students to appear before the interview committee.

Students were selected on the basis of poverty, merit, distance from home to college, sports achievements, involvement in NCC etc.

Now 145 students are identified as the beneficiaries for the year 2020-21 out of which 115 students will be provided with Free Meals and another 30 will be provided with subsidized meals. Owing to COVID-19 pandemic hit the facility is not yet begun. It will be commenced from next semester.

IAS Success Stories of Working Professionals

The UPSC Civil Services Exam is considered one of the toughest exams in India and a lot of candidates put their heart and soul into the preparation. Many aspirants sacrifice everything to see their names in the final rank list. The three stages of the IAS exam, the extremely huge UPSC syllabus, the intense competition, the unpredictability of the UPSC – all make the IAS preparation time a tough ordeal. Most candidates with jobs prefer to quit them and dedicate their time and energy exclusively to the UPSC exam. But there are some aspirants who dare to keep their fulltime job and also prepare for the exam. This is not easy and has its risks. Despite that, many such working professionals come out with flying colours in the UPSC exam. In this article, we bring you IAS Success Stories of Working Professionals.

UPSC Success Stories

Mittali Sethi (AIR 56; CSE: 2016)

A doctor who cleared the IAS exam with flying colours, Mittali Sethi was working as an orthodontist. She said in an interview that she had not known about the IAS exam before 2014. After one of her students told her about the exam she started preparing for it. She failed the Prelims twice before clearing the whole exam in her third attempt in 2016. She chose Psychology as an optional even though it was not her graduation subject. She is one of the aspirants who started preparing for the exam at a very late stage and aced it. In the inspiring aspirants' words, "Refuse to give up."

Bandana Pokhriyal (AIR: 83; CSE: 2015)

Bandana Pokhriyal was working as a Central Excise Inspector for 4.5 years prior to securing the IAS rank in her second attempt. She prepared for the Civil Services for 2.5 years while working at her job. She advises candidates not to get frustrated by setting impossible targets on a daily basis. She set practical targets for herself and made sure she rarely took long breaks in between her studies. She also recommends working professionals to prepare small chits or cards with notes on them, and keep them on the work table in the office. This way, candidates can make the most of short breaks or free time. She also says that weekends should be utilized to the full extent possible. Her optional subjects were Public Administration in the first attempt and Anthropology in the second.

R Vaithinathan (AIR: 37; CSE: 2015)

Vaithinathan secured an amazing rank of 37 in his fourth attempt at the IAS exam. What makes his achievement commendable is that he was working as a doctor in a Delhi hospital while preparing for the UPSC exam. Despite facing parental opposition for changing his career track (he was a gold medallist in his medical college), he marched ahead and faced all odds in pursuing his IAS dream. His IPS sister nudged him in the right direction and he acknowledges her support immensely. Vaithinathan had to work for 24 – 36 hours at a stretch and then study during his 2-day break between hospital sessions. This gritty doctor was on the verge of quitting before his fourth attempt, but decided otherwise on hearing his sister's encouraging words, "Don't let a moment of defeat define your life's outcome."

IAS aspirants can learn from the stories of UPSC toppers and incorporate the strategy they used to crack the IAS exam. These are just four of the many such success stories of inspiring people who proved to the world that there is nothing that hard work and perseverance cannot achieve.

IAS Study Plan for Beginners

The UPSC civil services exam is taken by lakhs of people in the country every year. It is a three-stage exam which when assailed will get you your ticket into a career in the illustrious Indian civil services. The UPSC exam is considered one of the toughest in India because of multifarious factors – the rather large UPSC syllabus, the intense competition, the eclectic nature of the subjects involved and also the unpredictability attributed to the UPSC papers. On an average, a candidate takes three attempts to clear the IAS exam. There are some of course, who have been able to do so in their maiden attempts itself. If you are a newbie to the civil services exam world, you would have to be a little extra attentive to certain things, if you are serious about your IAS aspirations.

Pre-preparation work

Before you commence your IAS preparation, you must do a few things. They are:

1. Be thorough with the UPSC syllabus. The UPSC syllabus is considered the bible of the exam and you may rest assured that a comprehensive knowledge of the syllabus' contents will make your IAS journey quite comfortable.
2. Get the UPSC exam dates.
3. Be clear of the UPSC format and pattern.
4. Prepare yourself mentally for a rollercoaster ride that will leave you a changed person. Be prepared for hard work, smart work, test practices, a lot of reading, writing answers, etc. You must also be ready to reduce the number of hours you socialise and wile away watching mindless television. You shouldn't totally stop these activities and become a hermit for that would be quite detrimental. However, studies must take top priority if you want to clear the IAS exam.

IAS Study Plan for Beginners

A lot of people start their preparation with the UPSC prelims and ignore the mains until after they take the prelims exam. This might help you clear the prelims but this plan would backfire since there is not much time between the prelims and the mains to start afresh after the prelims. Moreover, the syllabi for both have quite an overlap and it is only the test practice which is different. Since the prelims involves MCQs you need to practice for those. So, it is best to have an integrated approach to the UPSC CSE wherein you start preparation for both IAS prelims and mains simultaneously.

As beginners, you are recommended to start preparation with the basic books. The NCERTs are the preferred choice when it comes to the IAS exam. These books have a clear and simple language. They are easy to understand. In addition, the information contained here is authentic, so you can safely use it for facts. In case multiple books give contradictory information, you should stick to the NCERT version.

When should I start my IAS preparation?

Beginners should ideally get at least 10 – 12 months before the UPSC prelims exam for preparation. You can comprehensively cover the syllabus and have enough test practice only then. You should start with the common GS papers before moving on to the optional papers. But before the UPSC prelims exam, you should have completed at least 75% of your mains GS syllabus and at least 50% of your optional subject syllabus. Remember also to study for the CSAT paper. In case your academic background makes it easier for you to score in CSAT, you need only practice a few test papers a month before the prelims. In case you are not comfortable with CSAT, you should spend at least 2 months for the same. In any case, the CSAT is qualifying in nature and your target should be to just clear it.

Study exclusively for prelims

Two months before the prelims exam, you should dedicate your studies just for the prelims. Focus on how to manage time with 100 questions. Also learn how to avoid negative marking by intelligent guess work. Don't worry about the mains now since what you study will be useful for the mains also, but your focus should be on solving MCQs.

CURRENT AFFAIRS

Current affairs is perhaps the trickiest part of the IAS exam. This is because the examiner can ask anything under this banner. But don't fret. The UPSC might be unpredictable, but there is a method in this madness. When you read your daily newspapers (which is your No. 1 source for current affairs), you should relate what you read to the UPSC syllabus. You should compile current affairs notes as and when you read the papers. You can always rely on BYJU'S Comprehensive News Analysis CNA for the best and the most complete daily news compilation for the UPSC exam. Our experts go through several important news sources and provide you with important news analysis neatly categorised under sections. You will also have practice questions for both prelims and mains.

The most important tip for beginners

Freshers have two inherent disadvantages. One is the inexperience and the natural fear and anxiety that come with it. The second disadvantage is the tendency to take it lightly since you have more attempts and age on your side. Complacency is to be replaced with measured confidence. And fear is to be overcome with practice, practice and some more practice.

Eligibility Criteria For KPSC KAS Exam

The Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) conducts recruitment exams for Groups A, B, C and D posts in the Karnataka state bureaucracy. The Gazetted Probationers Exam is one such exam through which Group A and Group B officers are recruited in the Karnataka Administrative Service (KAS). This article lists down the complete eligibility criteria for the KPSC KAS Exam 2019.

The KPSC KAS Exam eligibility criteria are:

1. Academic Qualification
2. Age Limit
3. Number of Attempts

Academic Qualification	Graduate degree
Age Limit	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Minimum age: 21 years• Maximum: 35 years

Academic Qualification Criteria for KPSC KAS Exam

The rules governing the academic eligibility for the Gazetted Probationers exam are:

- Rule 7 – Karnataka Recruitment of Gazetted Probationers (Appointment by Competitive Examination) Rules, 1997
- 8th Amendment, Rules, 2010

According to the rules, candidates can only be eligible for the Gazetted Probationers Exam (KPSC KAS) if:

1. They have a Bachelor's degree awarded by a University established by law in India
2. Or a Master's degree from a recognised University
3. Or possess an equivalent qualification

Aspirants currently pursuing their last year of Graduation are also eligible for the KPSC KAS Prelims exam but they will have to submit proof of passing/completion before they are allowed to take the Main exam.

For medical background aspirants:

- If at the time of submission of the KAS Main exam application, they have passed the final year exam but not completed their internship, then they can be provisionally admitted to the exam.
- However, in such cases, they have to submit along with their online application for the Gazetted Probationers (Main) exam, a certificate copy from the concerned University/Institution stating that they have passed the final professional medical exam.
- Also, the candidates will have to submit the original degree at the time of Interview or a certificate from the concerned competent authority stating that they have completed all the requirements (including the internship) for the degree to be awarded.

KPSC does not consider the marks/GPA/percentage or the graduation stream.

KPSC KAS Exam Age Limit

Candidates should be at least 21 years old as on the last date for the submission of the application or any such date specifically notified by KPSC.

The maximum age of candidates cannot exceed 35 years for General Merit candidates. However, the relaxation in age limit for KPSC Gazetted Probationers exam is as follows:

Category	Relaxation in criteria	Maximum Age
GM	No relaxation	35 years
SC	5 years	40 years
ST	5 years	40 years
Cat – 1	5 years	40 years
2A	3 years	38 years
2B	3 years	38 years
3A	3 years	38 years
3B	3 years	38 years
Ex-MP	No of years in service
PH / Widow candidates	10 years	45 years

Number of Attempts in KPSC KAS Exam

- For General Merit candidates in the Gazetted Probationers exam, a maximum of 5 attempts is allowed.
- For OBC candidates, they are eligible for two additional attempts, thus making their total allowed attempts 7.
- For SC/ST/Cat-1 candidates, an unlimited number of attempts are allowed in the KPSC KAS exam provided they meet the age limit criteria.

The official KPSC recruitment notification states that if particular posts are notified with physical fitness criteria then no candidate shall be eligible for the posts even after clearing all the stages of the Gazetted Probationers Exam unless he/she meets the prescribed physical standards.
